The Need

Without access to clean water, no human being can thrive. A Pokot woman in western Kenya may walk up to 10 miles each day for water which is not clean, and could cause illness. Fulfilling this basic need consumes so much time and energy that there is little left to invest in family, in education, in self-sustaining work, in dreams for a better future. There are more than one million Pokot people living in Kenya, and we want this to change for each of them.

The Solution

There is a solution. Hope Water Project has been raising funds and awareness to meet this need among the Pokot people since 2012. We walk, run, and cycle with the goal of digging clean-water wells. We have already dug more than 126 wells and we have seen first-hand how clean water can change entire communities.

Breaking Ground Together

---

Breaking this cycle for the Pokot means we need to break ground. Imagine the hope that flows when the harsh, unforgiving, dry earth offers up sweet, clean, water! We need to grow our team of supporters to do it. Would you join us in this life-giving undertaking? We are looking for businesses and organizations to sponsor our annual golf event.
